- Application Deadline: March 1, 2027
- Amount: Funding varies – see below for details.
- Region: Quebec

Budget Envelopes reserved for nations and communities: To be eligible, an economic development project must have been prioritized by a resolution of the nation or community. Projects that meet the criteria of the Community Infrastructure component are eligible for funding under the Economic Development budget envelope if the Community Infrastructure component has been entirely spent.

Entrepreneurship: must target business startup, expansion, or development. It must, in addition, meet one or more of the following requirements: have a structuring effect on the Indigenous population; target job creation for Indigenous people; be economically and socially sustainable; increase the visibility of the Indigenous nation or community and the Indigenous population in general; and enable the community's development objectives to be implemented; structuring projects for economic development that generate indirect benefits may also receive support, provided the benefits can be demonstrated.

- Note: Eligible costs for this category are limited to capital expenditure, as defined by generally accepted accounting principles. However, assistance may be granted for activities to promote transition to the digital age as part of an eligible entrepreneurial project. In this case, the costs linked to the design of websites or web platforms are eligible, for up to 20% of the total eligible project costs.

Study: A Study project must mainly concern the completion of a study needed to develop a project eligible for the economic development budget envelope. The project may, for example, concern: the completion of a business plan; an assessment of a project's technical and financial feasibility; a market analysis for an investment project, or a study for the integrated management of traditional Indigenous resources and activities.

- Note: The amount allocated to studies may not exceed 30% of the total budget envelope for economic development in the community.

Assistance for local economic development: must mainly concern helping the nation or community to structure its economic development more effectively. More specifically, projects must aim to: help communities develop and coordinate a strategic economic development plan; identify, highlight and improve access to local resources; or recruit and train local economic development officers in Indigenous communities.

- Note: This financial assistance cannot exceed 50% of the economic development budget envelope allocated to the nation or community.

Social Economy Category: Social economy businesses sell products and services in innovative sectors that are just as diverse as those covered by other businesses. The mission of so-called “social economy” businesses is to sell goods and services that meet the needs of the community. They operate like a business but have a social purpose. Non-profit organizations whose mission is not mainly entrepreneurial, such as community organizations, charities, economic development corporations, municipal agencies, and so on, are not social economy enterprises. However, these organizations can set up social economy projects that meet the criteria above, for example to generate own-source revenue. In addition, Indigenous non-profit organizations in Indigenous communities may also be eligible, provided that the goals of their social economy projects include generating own-source revenue.

- Note: The assistance granted by the Government of Québec and its agencies cannot exceed 80% of eligible costs, and the combined total of financial assistance received from various levels of government cannot exceed 95% of eligible costs.
- Amount: The per-project limit is set at $200,000, and the maximum amount granted per organization is set at $500,000 for the duration of the program. A single organization may implement several projects but may not exceed the maximum amount.

Women and Youth Category: supports projects whose objective is to promote entrepreneurship among Indigenous young people and women by offering financing possibilities in communities where other prospects are limited. Eligible projects must be connected to business startup or development. It is also possible for applicants to obtain funding for skills upgrading or training in connection with an entrepreneurial project. The funding must mainly concern the acquisition of the skills needed to complete an entrepreneurial project that is admissible for this program component, provided that the person receiving the skills upgrading is Indigenous. It is also possible to receive funding for activities to promote transition to the digital age as part of an eligible entrepreneurial project.

- Note: The per-project limit is set at $150,000, and the maximum amount granted per promoter is set at $250,000 for the duration of the program. The assistance granted by the Government of Québec and its agencies cannot exceed 70% of eligible costs, and the combined total of financial assistance received from various levels of government cannot exceed 95% of eligible costs.

Economic Mobilization Category: A project in this category must have a mobilizing effect on the overall economy of Indigenous communities. It must also be supported by a consensus among the Indigenous nations concerned. All necessary costs for implementing projects in this category are eligible.

- Note: The assistance granted by the Government of Québec and its agencies cannot exceed 50% of eligible costs, and the combined total of financial assistance received from various levels of government cannot exceed 95% of eligible costs.
